Crash Occurs North of Xenia As Wright-Patterson Workers Are Enroute to Their Homes Here

Res B. Looker, 32, Washington C. H., was fatally injured and five other persons, including four local residents were injured seriously in a traffic accident near Wright-Patterson Field Monday at 5:10 P. M.

Mr. Looker died in Miami Valley Hospital, Dayton shortly after midnight from a fractured skull and other injuries.

Injured seriously were: Miss Verna Williams, 40; Mrs. Francis Smith, 25; Mrs. Donna Pollock, 23, and Virgil Boyer, all of Washington C. H. and Pfc. James Talbott, 23, Dayton.

Midwest Flood Damage Mounts

Hundreds Homeless In Three States

(By The Associated Press)
The Mississippi River's spring floods dealt further destructive blows in the upper valley region today.

Damage mounted into the millions of dollars. The Red Cross said 7,400 persons were homeless in Iowa, Illinois and Missouri. Another 24,000, the Red Cross said, were threatened with evacuation by the flood waters.

Men worked throughout the night in some of the Iowa and Illinois river towns endangered by the swirling waters from the big stream. Some rain and warmer weather was forecast for the area today.

Iowa communities -- Davenport, Dubuque, Clinton, Muscatine, Port Louis and Little Sabula--fought the angry waters. The crest which hit Dubuque Sunday, is moving downstream with Clinton, Davenport and Muscatine the next major cities to face the onslaught. As the floods moved downstream workmen in river towns in Wisconsin and Minnesota started the cleanup job.

Ohio Negroes Reveal Communist Deceit

COLUMBUS, April 24 —(AP)—The Communist party recruited Ohio Negroes with promises of racial equality and a Negro government in the south, four former party members told an Ohio legislative committee yesterday.

Three of them said they left the party when Communist clubs themselves began to practice racial segregation.

Their testimony was given at a hearing before a Senate-House group seeking the best way to curb subversives in Ohio.

The leading witness was William G. Cummings, Negro FBI agent who worked undercover in the party and helped convict the 11 top U. S. Communists tried in New York. All of the witnesses testified about Communist activities in Toledo.

Others were Negro C. M. Russell and his white wife, Loris, and Mrs. Christine Sutton, a Negro. They said they were Communists from about 1944 to 1949. Cummings said he joined in 1943 at the request of government agents.

Woman's Body Found In River--Note on Bank

CINCINNATI, April 24 —(AP)—The body of Mrs. Jessie M. Dresden, 71, was found today in the Ohio River.

Julius Brown, a nephew, said Mrs. Dresden disappeared from her home Monday evening. Police said they found the woman's coat and a note saying: "Millie: love to all," on the river bank.

"It's a small world."

Two Fayette County youths discovered this statement true on the battlefields of Korea.

Recently Pvt. Glenn D. Pierce, son of Mrs. Helen Pierce, who lives on the Hidy Road, was sent to Korea. Soon after his arrival in this Far East outpost Pvt. Pierce ran into Cpl. Sam Boggs Jr., who is serving as an MP there. Cpl. Boggs said Pierce was the first Fayette Countyman he had seen since leaving home about two years ago.

Pvt. Pierce was inducted into the army in November of 1950 and received his training at Camp Breckinridge, Ky. He is with the 32nd Infantry Regiment.

His brother Pvt. Melvin Pierce, who enlisted in the army in Feb. 1950 was stationed at the Sampson Air Force Base at Geneva, N. Y. until his recent transfer to the Craig Air Force Base at Selma, Ala.

Charles Dawes Dies Suddenly

He Rose to Fame Before Depression

CHICAGO, April 24 —(AP)—Gen. Charles Gates (Hell 'n Maria) Dawes, banker and statesman who won fame in many fields during his cyclonic career, died suddenly last night.

The 85-year-old former vice president, who served under President Coolidge from 1925-29, died of coronary thrombosis in his suburban Evanston home. He was stricken while talking to his wife, Caro.

Dawes, who was in public life for more than 30 years and often was the center of fierce controversies and momentous events, had not been ailing, a family spokesman said.

Dawes was chairman of the board of the City National Bank and Trust Company.

He had been named as honorary chairman of the committee to greet Gen. MacArthur on his Chicago visit Thursday.

Success came to Dawes in banking and utilities. And, he was prominent in public life—as vice president, as ambassador to Great Britain, as co-creator of the "Dawes plan," and as the director of the government's $2,000,000,000 Reconstruction Finance Corporation. He also won fame as an author and composer.

Out of Spotlight
In the last decade, Dawes kept pretty much out of the public spotlight. He usually went to his office in LaSalle Street daily. He adhered to a policy of no interviews and declined to give his views on events, past or present.

But it wasn't always so. After (Please turn to Page Eleven)

Wrong Day Picked By Drunken Driver To Get Arrested

PAULDING, April 24 —(AP)—There may never be a right time to get arrested -- but motorist Willis O. Hall, 28, now knows there's a wrong time.

Hall, of near Latty, was taken before Justice of the Peace Ernie Rulman recently by State Highway Patrolman T. L. Miller. He was charged with operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated.

An hour before the hearing, Rulman had gone to his office and discovered a large plate glass window broken. An empty beer bottle had been thrown through the window.

"Fines on liquor charges go up today," remarked Rulman as Patrolman Miller and Hall entered the office. Hall pleaded guilty and was fined $100 and costs.

Rulman, who is also state commissioner of semi-pro baseball and softball, led a fight here to ban sale of beer on Sunday.

Bingo Games in Xenia Are Not To Be Stopped

XENIA, April 24 —(AP)—Common Pleas Judge Frank L. Johnson told law enforcement officers yesterday not to interfere with bingo games if proceeds are for public benefit or charities. He issued a declaratory judgment saying Ohio law provides no penalties for such games. He said bingo may be illegal but there is no penalty if proceeds go to charity.

State's Financial Problems Near Solution in Legislature

By ART PARKS
COLUMBUS, April 24 —(AP)—The Ohio House of Representatives gets out from under its biggest financial problem tomorrow.

It will approve both the bill to pay the state's expenses for the next two years and a measure to cover the relatively small deficit in the budget.

In other words, these bills are on the House calendar for tomorrow and are certain to be approved.

The July 1, 1951-June 30, 1953, appropriations bill which totals $732,270,000 against a request by Gov. Frank J. Lausche for $729,114,000 to run the state the next two years. The House had to provide more revenues because the governor's budget used all available funds.

'Kind of Schmoie' Actor Confesses At Red Inquiry

WASHINGTON, April 24 —(AP)—Screen Actor Mac Lawrence told the House un-American committee today intellectual curiosity—"I was a curious kind of a Schmoie"—led him to join the Communist party. He said this was "an unholy mistake."

Lawrence named screen actor Lionel Stander as "the guy who introduced me to the party line."

The fast talking, 41-year-old character actor testified that, after he came to Hollywood in 1938, Stander told him to go to classes at which Communists made speeches. "These guys confused me, they gave me a headache," Lawrence testified. "After about 12 of these meetings, I left."

First, however, he said he signed a card at the request of someone—a name he picked out of a newspaper and has since forgotten.

Stander is to be heard later. So are writer and novelist Abraham Polonsky, agent George Willner and Actor Morris Carnovsky.

Fire in Japan Fatal to 97

YOKOHAMA, Japan, April 24 —(AP)—Roaring flames killed at least 97 persons today when a dangling power line turned an old-style wooden railway coach into a blazing funeral pyre.

Seven of the dead were American soldiers.

Police said the spectacular fire started as the electric suburban train pulled into Sakuragicho station.

Passengers screamed in terror as they tried to force their way to safety through the car's narrow windows. Only 39 succeeded. All were injured.

The flames quickly enveloped the train's first car after an electric power wire touched the roof. The second car was partially burned before police stopped the fire.

For more than one hour the smoldering ruins were too hot for firemen to enter the cars.

The operator was killed before he could open the door for the horrified passengers.

Margaret Truman Has Ambition to Become Actress

HOLLYWOOD, April 24 —(AP)—Margaret Truman would like to become an actress as well as continuing her singing career.

She "might consider motion pictures," she told a news conference yesterday upon her arrival to participate in a radio play Thursday.

She said she has had movie offers but has been too busy with radio and record work to consider them.

The president's daughter will appear opposite James Stewart in a Screen Directors Guild Playhouse presentation of the play "Jackpot." She will play Stewart's wife and the mother of two children.

Miss Truman would "like to do both singing and acting from now on," she said. Her dramatic experience so far has been confined to high school and college plays. She has just finished a concert tour and plans to make another next fall.

Woman Is Indicted On Burglar Charge

COLUMBUS, April 24 —(AP)—A 27-year-old mother today was indicted on 22 charges of burglary and larceny.

The woman, identified as Mrs. Mary Ann Long of Newark and Cleveland, was arrested April 9. She is the mother of a six-year-old girl.

Police said Mrs. Long would knock at a door to see if a home was occupied. If not, they said, she would enter and steal chargeplates and checks.

Mrs. Long was charged with 10 counts of burglary, 10 counts of forgery through use of chargeplates, and two counts of check forgery.

MacArthur Celebration Casualty Is Reported

NEW YORK, April 24 —(AP)—A man accidentally struck by a metal paperweight during the welcome-home parade for Gen. Douglas MacArthur Friday, died today of a fractured skull.

Mario Riccobono, 47, of Astoria, Queens, had been standing near the Woolworth building at Broadway and Park Place waiting for the parade. Suddenly he collapsed, and a half-pound paperweight was found beside him.

Fabb Home Destroyed In 2 Hours

Two hours after County Treasurer Charles A. Fabb first saw smoke curling up from the roof at mid-morning Tuesday, his home on the Chillicothe Road was nothing but a smoldering mass of ruins.

Mr. and Mrs. Fabb had started to the treasurer's office at the usual time, but on the way a tire on their car had gone flat. Later he went back home for the repairs, leaving Mrs. Fabb in the office.

It was about 10:30 o'clock when Fabb said he saw smoke coming up from the roof around the chimney as he pulled into the yard.

He dashed into the house and up to the second floor. There he found the roof ablaze, but he said the flames were not spreading rapidly at that time.

The telephone service had not been impaired and he put in a call to the Washington C. H. Fire Department. But, because the city has no contract with Wayne Township -- the Fabb home is just over the Union Township line -- he was told it would be impossible to send fire fighting equipment.

Furniture Saved
Neighbors and passers-by gathered and started carrying out the furniture on the first floor. Fabb estimated about 75 percent of everything on the first floor was saved and that some of the furniture, clothing etc. on the second (Please turn to Page Two)

Part of North Ohio Going on Fast Time

CLEVELAND, April 24 —(AP)—Cleveland and a number of northern Ohio cities will change to daylight savings time next Sunday.

But most of the state, including the capital city of Columbus, will remain on Eastern Standard time.

Daylight Saving Time, which involves turning the clocks ahead one hour, will be in effect until the last Sunday in September.

Mount Vernon will switch to Daylight Saving Time May 21. The city council, yielding to three years' pressure and a petition with 2,000 signatures, passed an ordinance calling for fast time until Sept. 30, 1951. But the ordinance won't be effective until May 21.

Some confusion is expected in Mount Vernon. Intercity bus lines are staying on EST. Trains and mail trucks will do the same.

Many rural residents in Knox County, of which Mount Vernon is the seat, are strongly opposed to Daylight Saving Time. The Knox County commissioners haven't decided yet if the court house --and the clock in the court house tower--will be on fast time or slow time.

MacArthurs' Son Sees First Circus

NEW YORK, April 24 —(AP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur's son, Arthur, 13, went to the circus at Madison Square Garden.

The march, sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars, was organized in 1948 to offset the annual May Day Communist parade.

Word that MacArthur would participate was handed down by one of the general's aides.

While MacArthur remained sequestered in his 37th floor Waldorf-Astoria Hotel suite yesterday, his son, Arthur, 13, went to the circus at Madison Square Garden.

Arthur downed cotton candy, pop corn, ice cream and soda pop as he saw the Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey show for the first time.

He was accompanied by Henry Ringling North, vice president of the circus, and a personal party of three colonels, four policemen and his Chinese nurse. Four newsmen also went along.

Hole Is Smashed Through Center Of Allied Line

But Public Service Goes on

Rising costs are a major problem for the nation's newspapers, the president of the American Newspaper Publishers Association said today.

"The difficulty of publishing a newspaper has never been greater -- we are confronted constantly with the puzzle of how to make our income equal our expense," said Edwin S. Friendly, a vice president of the New York World-Telegram and Sun.

Friendly's remarks were in a speech prepared for executives of newspapers in the 10,000 to 50,000 circulation group who are here for the ANPA's 65th annual convention.

Executives of newspapers with circulations under 10,000 met in separate session.

Inflation poses special problems for newspapers, Friendly said, explaining: "Newspapers differ from commodities in that they are perishable."

Senators Bridges (R-NH) and Knowland (R-Calif.) are likely leaders in this move.

"This would be independent of what General MacArthur has to say when he testifies before the committee," Taft said. "We think there should be some organized answer to the case the administration will lay down."

Taft, who heads the Senate Republican policy committee, has given general support to the deposed Pacific commander's proposals for blockading Red China, operating United Nations planes over Manchuria and using Chinese Nationalist troops.

School Head's Plea Under Advisement

CINCINNATI, April 24 —(AP)—The first district court of appeals today took under advisement a plea by Lester D. Freshchon that he be reinstated as superintendent of schools at Blanchester.

Freshchon claimed that in April 1950 the school board transferred him from the superintendency to a teaching position in the high school at a reduction in salary.

Last September the board turned down his plea to be reinstated and he then took the case to the court of appeals.

Attorneys for Freshchon argued before the court today that he had a contract with the school board and that his status in the school system could not be reduced.

President's Cousin Knocks Off Hat of President's Critic

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., April 24 —(AP)—Seventy-year-old Ralph Truman knocked off the hat of an insurance salesman who made a remark about President Truman yesterday.

Ralph Truman, a retired major general, is the president's cousin.

The incident followed a Chamber of Commerce directors' meeting.

During the session, civilian defense pamphlets telling what to do during an atomic bomb attack were passed around. Witnesses said Larry Eiffert, the salesman, remarked, "they ought to drop one of these on old Harry."

Truman, who attended the meeting, approached 35-year-old Eiffert afterwards and said: "You can't talk like that about the president."

He followed through with a punch that knocked off Eiffert's hat.

A bystander stepped between the men and they both walked away.

Communist Horde Rolls Ahead Despite Terrific Slaughter

BY OLEN CLEMENTS
TOKYO, April 24 —(AP)—Nearly one-half million battle-tested Reds smashed a hole in the center of the United Nations line today in their third invasion of South Korea.

Communist troops streamed through the gap and bent back the right flank of the Allied line.

They were striking savagely with the aim of breaking up the International Eighth Army into piecemeal units.

South Korean units manning the center of the 100-mile line crumbled before the fury of the Red spring offensive. Their retreat exposed other Allied divisions.

Frontline officers considered the situation serious. But headquarters commanders were confident the rejuvenated Allied forces could stem the offensive.

Lt. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, the grenade-packing paratrooper who shored up the morale of Allied forces before he succeeded General MacArthur as supreme commander, visited the front.

Worst Yet To Come, Belief
Ridgway said the great battle "well may prove decisive." He called it the greatest Red offensive yet launched, but warned that the Allies probably have not yet met its full strength.

On the eastern flank Red Koreans overran Inje. They struck with surprising strength. Defense of the two, four miles north of the border, collapsed.

South Koreans gave way before a similar Chinese assault in the center. The Korean retreat exposed the flanks of other UN units.

Reds rammed through, deepening their wedge south of the 38th Parallel. Censorship withheld the precise distance. Earlier in the day the Chinese had pushed four miles into South Korea. And they were still pressing forward over the dusty hills on foot and by horseback.

Ridgway declared: "It appears to me at this time that this attack is another major effort by our Communist enemy to (Please turn to Page Twelve)

Broader Korea War GOP Policy Bases

WASHINGTON, April 24 —(AP)—Amid fresh Democratic attacks on Gen. Douglas MacArthur's proposals, Republicans moved today to present independently their side of the row over President Truman's Far Eastern policy.

Senator Taft (R-Ohio) told a reporter he expects Republican members of the Senate armed services committee to take the lead in organizing a case for broader prosecution of the Korean war.

Senators Bridges (R-NH) and Knowland (R-Calif.) are likely leaders in this move.

"This would be independent of what General MacArthur has to say when he testifies before the committee," Taft said. "We think there should be some organized answer to the case the administration will lay down."

Taft, who heads the Senate Republican policy committee, has given general support to the deposed Pacific commander's proposals for blockading Red China, operating United Nations planes over Manchuria and using Chinese Nationalist troops.

The Nation Today

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON, April 24—(P)—One strange thing about getting excited is that it helps up forget that:

1. We may have just gotten over being excited.

2. When this is over, we'll get excited about something else.

And if you don't think so, just remember some of the fevers of the past few months.

The echo of one national excitement had hardly faded before our blood pressure rose over something else. There was always something else.

At this minute the nation is steamed up over the Truman-MacArthur dispute.

It's hardly a month since we had a high temperature over the troops-for-Europe debate, the so-called great debate in which we wondered whether sending any troops at all to our allies in Europe was a good idea. Not as many people were as interested in that, though, as in the Truman-MacArthur fuss.

And at the same time we were able to stay highly excited by the Senate's Kefauver crime investigation and the Senate's investigation of doings in the RFC, the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. There was a lot of talk, too, about the unsettled question whether to draft 18-year-olds.

There was, of course, a flurry of excitement when the Republicans in Congress voted no-confidence in Secretary of State Acheson, but nothing to match the excitement we felt in late November and for more than a month afterward.

That was when the Chinese Communists entered the Korean war against us, driving our troops back, a situation which caused the president to declare a national emergency. Then we got wage and price controls.

And, of course, before that, there was the great excitement over the outbreak of war in Korea last June, the event which touched off a whole line of fever peaks.

Although the past ten months or so have been bad for the national calm, they weren't much different from previous years in providing a quota of events that frayed tempers and kept us fever-hopping.

Take 1949, for instance: announcement by the president that the Russians had achieved an atomic explosion, two or three years before most of our experts said they could.

And in 1949 a Senate committee broke open the five-percent racket, we joined the history-making Atlantic pact, the navy disputed with the air force over the navy's role in the air, and there was the trial of the top Communist leaders in this country.

That list doesn't cover all the steaming events. There were others, just as there were in 1948:

The 1948 elections which put the Democrats back in control of Congress and President Truman back in the White House, again to the surprise of experts.

That was the year of the Berlin airlift, when no one could say whether the next day would bring war. The Marshal Plan for helping Europe got going that year. And in the House there was the investigation which led to Alger Hiss' trials for perjury and his going to jail this year.

And the cost of living was still shooting through the roof, in spite of those congressional experts who so confidently predicted that once OPA was killed, back in 1946, prices would go up briefly, then come down.

The year 1947 had some events of its own, such as passage of the Taft-Hartley Act after months of bitterest dispute. Howard Hughes' war contracts were investigated. And this country and Russia came to the parting of the ways.

In 1946 the Republicans won control of Congress—that was the year OPA got its death stroke—after a tough campaign that kept the country agog for months. Enough for 1946.

In the past six years none has provided the excitement of 1945 when Germany and Japan quit, Hitler killed himself, President Roosevelt died, this country undraped the atom bomb and dropped it on Japan, the United Nations got started after months of preparation, and the congressional investigation of the Pearl Harbor disaster began.

It seems safe to predict that before this Truman-MacArthur dispute has quieted down altogether, we'll be up to our necks in something else.

Business Men Must File Soon

Price Stabilization Report Due

A warning to retail merchants that they have only a few days to file the proper forms under Office of Stabilization regulations was issued today by District Director Edward F. Wagner.

The deadline for filing form five under regulations 15 and 16 is April 28.

The forms for merchants in Columbus and southeastern Ohio are available at the Columbus district office at 68 E. Gay St., and at the Washington C. H. Chamber of Commerce.

When properly filled out form five shows in which of four classes the individual grocer falls. The classes are determined by the volume of business done by the grocer.

Wagner urges grocers to request regulations and forms from any of the above sources or to send a card or letter to the Columbus office.

"Time is running out," the price official said, "and we want to do everything possible to see that grocers obtain the regulations and required forms. This is not possible unless we have the cooperation of the individual grocer."

Call Made for Many Physicians

Quota Is Announced For Three Months

WASHINGTON, April 24—(P)—The defense department has called for the draft of 1,202 physicians during July, August and September.

Officials said the draft call is needed because there have not been enough volunteers to fill medical needs. If enough physicians volunteer, the present requisition will not be necessary, the department said.

The call is for priority one physicians -- men who received medical education at government expense or were deferred from service during World War two to attend medical school, and who have served less than 90 days in the armed forces.

Twenty one thousand medical, dental and other medical men registered last Oct. 16. They included both priority one men and those in priority two. In the latter group are men who served less than 21 months in the armed forces.

The number of physicians who registered was 12,845 including both priority one and priority two.

Probe Completed In Stark County

CANTON, April 24—(P)—The Stark County grand jury ended a vice and crime probe Monday with a report of "appalling vice conditions" for which officials and the general public were blamed.

Fines for prostitution were so light at Canton municipal court, the jury declared, that "an arrest and fine, in most cases, becomes an advertisement rather than a deterrent to future violations."

"Corruption has permeated many of our administrative and law enforcement officials," the report said.

Testimony given the grand jury indicates without question that if the officials were doing their duty properly and insisting on enforcement, all gambling and vice would be eliminated within

Of these 2,910 have volunteered; they are either on active duty or have accepted commissions.

Under the amended Selective Service act all available priority one physicians must be called before any priority two men are summoned.

The draft call issued today is for 717 for July, 333 for August, and 152 for September.

RFC Influence Charge Not New

Used by Democrats Against Hoover

By CHARLES MOLONY
WASHINGTON, April 24—(AP)—If recent activities of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation are used as ammunition in the 1952 presidential election, history will be repeating itself—only with a twist.

Republicans hoping to capitalize on charges that an "influence ring" with White House connections has recently swayed loan policy at the 19-year-old lending agency can point to a precedent set by the Democrats in the 1932 election.

With the then governor of New York, Franklin D. Roosevelt, working to wrest the presidency from Republican Herbert Hoover, the Democrats made such use of the "Dawes loan" case that Mr. Hoover felt obliged to devote a campaign speech to it.

The case took its name from Charles G. Dawes, a former (1925-29) Republican vice president of the United States who was named president of the RFC upon its creation under Hoover Jan. 22, 1932.

Dawes, now 85 and board chairman of the City National Bank and Trust Company in Chicago, has declined comment on either the disclosures in the recent RFC investigation here or the "Dawes loan" that made controversy in the past.

$90,000,000 Followed
The uproar latterly over the RFC was no greater than that which followed in 1932 when Dawes resigned the RFC presidency after about six months, became head of a Chicago bank, and that bank got — three weeks later — a $90,000,000 RFC loan.

Democrats then, as Republicans now, raised an outcry about RFC "influence and favoritism." Republicans denied that and insisted the loan was not only proper but commendable—a boon to the bank's depositors and the country as a whole. However, the recent hue and cry over "favoritism" at the RFC was sparked by a Senate banking subcommittee headed by a Democrat—Fulbright of Arkansas.

One big part of the 1932 argument—whether the government would ever get back the $90,000,000 loaned the "Dawes bank"—has been settled by the passage of time.

The RFC records today show that $105,625,000 has been collected, enough to cover the $90,000,000 principal and some $3,500,000 in handling and collection costs.

then leave over $12,000,000—equivalent to interest of above 2½ percent annually.

Case Not Closed Yet

The case isn't fully closed yet. RFC officials say they're still liquidating the security for the loan, and the security remaining probably will yield more than $500,000 in additional funds eventually.

Other phases of the "Dawes loan" are still being argued, however.

The basic facts in the record go like this:
Dawes resigned from the RFC June 6, 1932, to return to the Central Bank and Trust Company in Chicago, which he had organized many years earlier and had built into a major financial institution of the time.

On June 28, 1932, RFC announced its loan to central, long known as the "Dawes bank."

On Oct. 6, 1932, plans were announced for a sort of financial triple play as follows: Dawes retired from the chairmanship of Central, the old bank, and became chairman of the new bank, the City National Bank and Trust Company.

After Central became defunct, RFC in 1936 sued to collect $14,000,000 from the stockholders and won a federal court judgment in that amount from 3,500 stockholders.

At the time of RFC's loan to Central, banks over the nation were having a rough time, with many of them closing. There were "runs" by frightened depositors on Chicago banks. The depositors wanted to cash out their accounts, fearing the banks would fail. Dawes' Central was being hard pressed by depositors.

Hoover's Explanation
President Hoover, in a campaign speech at St. Louis on Nov. 4, 1932, said the RFC loan to Central was made because "failure of this bank to continue business would have added to the panic which threatened to bring down other banks in that city and spread in turn to other cities and involve many trust and insurance companies."

He said that the RFC loan — coming on a Monday morning — stopped a run on Central and on other banks with which Central was affiliated. This, Hoover said, secured the savings of thousands of private depositors, and the funds of hundreds of small businesses.

Hoover said that Jesse Jones, then a director and later, under Roosevelt, chairman of RFC, and another Democratic member of the RFC board had "insisted" on the loan.

Hoover said, "Gen. Dawes stated that he could not bring himself to ask for assistance from the corporation (RFC) in which he had so lately been a director. Hoover added:

"It (Dawes' acceptance of the

College Students Must Take Tests

WASHINGTON, April 24—(AP)—All draft-eligible college students have been advised by Selective Service to take the forthcoming aptitude tests regardless of their scholastic standing.

In making this suggestion in a radio broadcast (LBS) yesterday, Brig. Gen. Louis H. Renfrow, deputy director, said he is concerned about reports that students are not applying to local draft boards for the examination application cards.

He said it is "virtually impossible for everyone eligible for the test to take it." Later he put it more strongly, saying each eligible student "must take the test and have it in his files."

Gus Karger New Head Of Reserve Officers

CINCINNATI, April 24—(AP)—Col. Alfred Gus Karger, Cincinnati, is the new president of the Ohio Reserve Officers Association. He succeeds Lt. Col. Anthony J. Wilde, Waynesville, who was named secretary at the group's closing session here yesterday. Mrs. Joseph Nagy of Akron was elected president of the association's auxiliary.

Newspaper Man Michigan Senator

LANSING, MICH., April 24—(AP)—Blair Moody, Washington correspondent for the Detroit News has been named by Governor Mennen Williams as U. S. senator from Michigan succeeding the late Arthur H. Vandenberg.

The 49-year-old Moody has been assigned to the Washington News Bureau since 1933. During World War II, he served as war correspondent for the News and the North American Newspaper Alliance.

Mastodon Skeleton Found in Montana

MISSOULA, Mont. April 24—(AP)—Discovery of what may prove to be a complete mastodon skeleton has been announced by Montana State University scientists. They credited Ray and Clint Kallestad, who operate the Kallestad Sand and Gravel Co. with uncovering the huge prehistoric relative of the elephant.

Dr. Kenneth P. McLaughlin and Dr. Fred S. Honkala of the university geology department said the animal, which roamed the area somewhere between 25,000 and 50,000 years ago, possibly stood about 16 feet high. One tusk measures at least 3 feet long.

HADACOL HELPS MEN, WOMEN AND CHILDREN

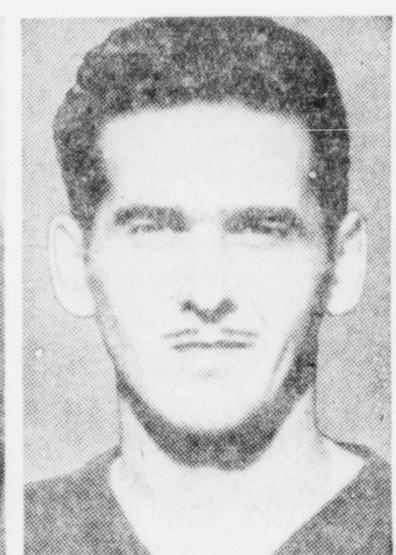

Suffering Stomach Distress, Aches and Pains, Weak, Run-down Conditions and Nervousness When Due To Deficiencies of Vitamins B₁, B₂, Niacin and Iron

Mrs. Anna Lavergne, Church Point, Louisiana: "You don't know how wonderful it feels to be in such good condition—after feeling run-down. I had a very poor appetite—in fact, food didn't agree with me at all. I had a hard time sleeping nights . . . sometimes I would stay awake until one or two in the morning and then the next day I would feel tired and groggy all day long. You have no idea how terrible I felt. Now all this is gone . . . yes, now that I have been taking HADACOL. I feel wonderful. I get lots of good, sound sleep, have a fine appetite and just lots of energy. I can eat any kind of food now and it doesn't bother me a bit. I just can't begin to thank HADACOL."

F. W. Horton, 108 74th Ave., Houston, Texas: "I am the son of 'Lee' was very weak and run-down and just didn't want to eat at all. We heard about HADACOL and decided that was what Lee needed. After he started taking HADACOL his appetite picked up right away. He started gaining weight and eats real well now, and has been feeling real good. HADACOL has been good for Lee and I heartily recommend it to everyone."

Richard Krehlik, 3118 Marfield Road, Toledo 14, Ohio: "I am an apprentice pharmacist and I go to the University of Toledo. Going to school and working until 9:30 gets pretty tiresome. I was getting tired and run-down keeping pace with all I had to do. Being married and having a family, I am compelled to work after school. I work in a pharmacy here in Toledo. After selling HADACOL here in the store, I decided I'd try it. You have no idea how much it has picked me up. I'm telling you truthfully, HADACOL is the answer to all my tiredness from sitting up late at night doing homework after I come home from work. Already I have won customers on HADACOL. I am 31 and a veteran of World War II."

HADACOL CAN HELP YOU . . .

. . . if your system lacks these essential elements, you will be amazed at the wonderful results HADACOL can bring you, as it has to thousands of other fine folks who suffered a deficiency of Vitamins B₁, B₂, Niacin and Iron, which HADACOL contains.

HADACOL is that wonderful new preparation—promising blessed relief for your indigestion, stomach disturbances (gas, heartburn, sour "risings" after meals), as well as that general run-down condition, and annoying aches and pains, if due to a lack of Vitamins B₁, B₂, Iron and Niacin in your system.

Don't go through life suffering with conditions caused by such deficiencies when relief may be as close at hand as the nearest drugstore for sufferers from these deficiencies. Buy HADACOL today. Trial size bottle only $1.25. Large family economy size, $3.50. Refuse substitutes. There's only one true and genuine HADACOL. Sold on a strict money-back guarantee—you'll feel great after the first few bottles you take or your money will be refunded.

M. Y. F. Group Makes Plans For Activities

The Good Hope Methodist Church Youth Fellowship with thirteen members present met at the home of the president, Miss Marilyn Thomas.

Rev. Eugene Frazer opened the meeting with prayer and the usual reports were heard. The electric clock purchased by the group for the church was on display.

Speakers for future meetings were discussed and plans were made for a Mother's Day tea on May 13, in Wayne Hall at 2:30 P. M.

They also planned to attend the Chillicothe District Youth Rally in Lancaster on Sunday, April 29, which will include a covered dish supper.

The next regular meeting on May 6 will be at the home of Miss Lois Davis.

The meeting closed with the M.Y.F. benediction and a social hour followed, during which refreshments were served by Miss Thomas, assisted by her mother.

Spring Project Is Planned By Sorority

The regular meeting of Graduate Sorority was held in the Record Herald club rooms Monday evening and was in charge of the primus, Mrs. John Ohnewehr, who opened the meeting in ritualistic form.

The business session included the choosing of delegates for the State Graduate Conference at the Fort Hayes Hotel, Columbus, April 29 and those named were Mrs. Neil Helfrich, Mrs. Charles McCoy, Mrs. John E. Rhoades and Mrs. Gene Stanforth.

One of the major projects of the sorority is to purchase a wardrobe for a young lady in the county schools, which will consist of clothing for her graduation exercises.

The membership committee with additional help will plan a dessert bridge which will honor prospective members to start the rushing season and the time and place will be announced later.

Miss Betty Priboj, a Czechoslovakian girl, was a guest at the meeting and gave an informal talk on her impressions of America, of her homeland and the events leading to her entrance to this country which was most interesting.

Her talk concluded the meeting and during the social hour light refreshments were served by the committee, Mrs. Neil Helfrich and Mrs. Robert Fortier.

Golden Wedding Anniversary To Be Observed

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Snyder who reside at 1000 Xenia Avenue, Dayton, are planning a celebration of their golden wedding anniversary on Sunday, April 29, when they will receive guests at open house from 2 to 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

The Snyders who are former Fayette countians have resided in Dayton for the past 30 years. They have many relatives and friends here to whom they extend a cordial invitation to call during the afternoon.

Camp Fire Girls Plan Spring Projects

The Wetomachick Camp Fire Girls held their regular meeting at the home of their guardian, Mrs. Philip Douglass, with Sandra Mickle, president in charge.

Roll call was responded to by the naming of a favorite dessert, and the treasurer's report was given by LuAnn Foster.

A discussion was held on Mother's Day plans and the girls worked on plans for the event. Plans were also made for a hike in the near future and a story was read by Patricia Robinson.

Refreshments were served by the young hostesses, LuAnn Foster and Billie Jean Appton.

The next meeting on May 22 will be held at the home of the guardian, Mrs. Douglass.

Young People Of Church Hold Meeting

The Youth Group of Jeffersonville Methodist Church met Sunday evening in the church, with twenty-three members present.

The recreation period was led by Rev. Forest Moon, assisted by Beverly Coll and Betty Grim, and a short worship period was in charge of David Baughn.

Later, Mrs. Forrest Ervin, Mrs. O. L. Wiseman and Mrs. Forest Moon served light refreshments to the members.

Mr. Limes Hostess At Benefit Party

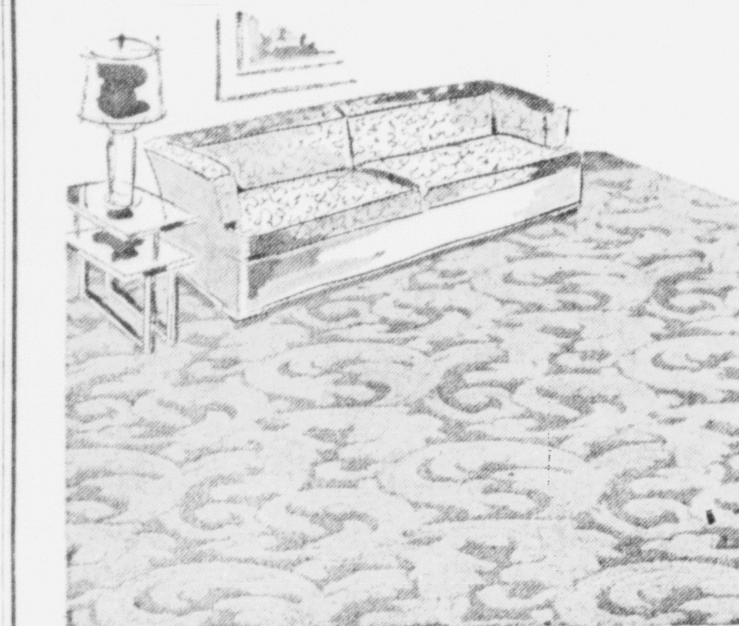

Mrs. W. H. Limes entertained in the second series of the Vanishing Bridge parties and included two tables of guests.

Light refreshments were served during the evening by the hostess and at the conclusion of play, table prizes were awarded Mrs. C. D. Young and Mrs. Ormond Dewey.

Guests included were Mrs. McCoy Gardner, Mrs. Stanley Chitt, Mrs. Edgar Wilson, Mrs. Ormond Dewey, Mrs. L. M. Hayes and Mrs. C. D. Young.

Sorority Party Honors Rushees

Members of Ohio Zeta Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi sorority honored rushees Monday evening at a delightful canasta and bridge party in Grange Hall, which was preceded by a delicious covered dish dinner.

The event honored Mrs. Michael Helfrich, Mrs. C. D. Lewis and Mrs. Rex Looker, the latter who was unable to be present.

A large arrangement of daffodils centered the serving table and smaller bouquets of the same flowers were used on tables seating the group for the congenial dinner hour.

In the progressive game later the awards were presented to the honor guests. The committee in charge of the party was Mrs. Joe F. Loudner, chairman, Mrs. Harry Campbell and Mrs. James DeWeese.

Youth Group Meets with Nancy Hurr

The Junior Baptist Youth Fellowship group of First Baptist Church met at the home of Nancy Hurr. The meeting opened with the singing of a hymn and the Lord's Prayer in unison.

Nancy Reno, president, conducted the business sessions and the usual reports were heard.

Roll call was responded to with a Bible verse and plans were made for a picnic on May 13.

Ronny Whitaker conducted the Bible lesson and the meeting closed with the hymn "Blest Be The Tie That Binds."

Later the hostess assisted by her mother, Mrs. Charles Hurr served light refreshments.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lambert advisors of the group, were present to supervise the meeting.

Couple Honored At Informal Party

Pic. and Mrs. William Brown were complimented with an informal party when Mr. and Mrs. Wayne McArthur entertained with a hamburger fry at their home on the Waterloo Road.

The guests enjoyed a delicious meal of hamburger sandwiches and accompanying viands, served buffet style from the dining room table. The remainder of the evening was spent informally.

Guests enjoying the event were Charles, Robert and Larry McArthur, Mrs. Cora McArthur, Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Brown and children, Wilma, Ronald Garry and Zachary.

Petticoat Crusader Running For Mayor of Gary, Indiana

GARY, Ind., April 24—(AP)—A 41-year-old mother who two years ago helped chase gamblers out of Gary now has politicians in a tizzy. She is running for mayor.

Mrs. Hylda Mae Burton, a school teacher, is out to beat seven men in the May 8 primary race for the Democratic nomination.

Politicians in this politically tough city, third largest in Indiana, regard her as a "long shot." But they admit she has them guessing.

One reason is that she was a leader in a successful petticoat crusade against organized crime long before most housewives in other cities heard about the crime problem from Senator Kefauver via television.

Mrs. Burton is the wife of a fuel dealer and mother of a 10-year-old daughter.

Two years ago a group of Gary women organized the women's citizens committee to war against gambling establishments, bookie joints and houses of prostitution.

They carried their fight to the governor. To dramatize their crusade they picketed known gambling establishments and forced a shakeup in the city police department.

Politicians give them credit defeating a Lake County prosecutor in 1950 and bringing to light information which led to disbarment proceedings against his Gary deputy.

A Lake County grand jury, looking into what the WCC called an "unholy alliance between crime and politics," indicted the mayor of neighboring Whiting, Ind. It also indicted three police executives and five accused gamblers.

Mrs. Burton, who has no organized backing in a political sense, got into the primary fight because, she says, the other candidates on either side offered little for good government.

The non-partisan WCC, of which she once was chairman, has given Mrs. Burton a leave of absence. It is not supporting any candidate. Mayor Eugene Swartz, a Democrat who came under fire from the WCC after the still-unresolved 1949 murder of Mary Cheever, a colleague of Mrs. Burton's at Lew Wallace High School, is not seeking renomination. He says he wants to get back into private business.

Chief opponents of Mrs. Burton are Peter Mandich, a one-time Tu-

Seven Nazis Lose Appeal

High Court Refuses Them Hearing

WASHINGTON, April 24—(AP)—The seven Nazis sentenced to death in Germany for concentration camp atrocities have lost their bid for a supreme court hearing.

The high tribunal refusal to review their case presumably clears the way for military authorities to carry out the executions.

The seven Nazis include former SS (Elite Guard) officers and concentration camp officials, accused of murdering thousands of civilians during World War II. They are the last Nazis under death sentences.

The court's decision not to grant the men a hearing was reached by a vote of 6 to 2. Justices Black and Douglas favored reviewing the case. Justice Jackson took no part in consideration of the appeal. Jackson at one time served as chief U. S. prosecutor at the trial of top Nazi leaders at Nuernberg, Germany.

The seven originally were ordered to go to the gallows last February 14, at the United States prison at Landsberg, Germany. The executions were postponed, however, pending final action on legal proceedings filed on their behalf in this country.

Announcement of her appointment to this position is made in the 1951 catalogue of the Ohio State Fair.

Miss Hynes is also active in Farm Bureau and in 4-H work. She has been a member of food, sewing and livestock clubs for seven years.

On Saturday she will attend the joint conference of the Ohio Farm Bureau Youth Cabinet, of which she is a member. The conference, to be held in the Columbus YMCA will devote itself to planning a program for rural leadership training.

Last August she attended the Farm Bureau training school at Miami University, where she was elected chairman of district seven.

As a member of the State Farm Bureau Youth Cabinet she attends special meetings at the State Farm Bureau offices at Columbus.

She was an officer in the Juvenile Grange and later a pianist for the Fayette Grange. She is active in the Fayette County Grange Youth organizations. Miss Hynes is a member of the state and national Grange.

Living Costs Same All Over

Can't Pare Expense By Moving

NEW YORK, April 24 —(AP)—You can't pare your living costs by moving to another part of the country the way you used to.

It's just about as expensive today in Tucson, Arizona, as it is in Boston. What you save on one item you may lose on another. All across the country the cost of living is being regimented. In fact, the middle-sized cities may actually be a little harder on the family budget than some of the biggest ones.

Take New York for an example. It long had a bad name as being among the toughest on the pocket-book. Times have changed. A lot of smaller places are tougher.

In a study of living costs in 33 cities, comparing March, 1935, with October, 1950, the national industrial conference board reports today that at the earlier date New York was the fourth most expensive place, and nine percent more costly than the average of the 33.

Now the budget for a worker's family of four puts New York in 25th place and about three percent cheaper than the average of the 33 cities.

Milwaukee has moved up to first place from sixth. Washington, D. C., which was the costliest in the mid-thirties, is now second. Richmond was third most expensive in 1950, but was cheaper than the average 15 years ago. Houston, which was the fourth cheapest, in 1933, was the fourth

School band and orchestra for five years and has been accompanist for the Triple Trio and Ensemble.

She belongs to the Thespian Society, Future Teachers of America, National Honor Society, Y-Teens and is society editor of her school paper "The Lion's Roar."

highest last fall. Atlanta has gone from one percent below the average in 1935 to four percent above the average in 1950 and holds fifth place.

But the conference board stresses that the spread is disappearing. In 1935 there was a 25 percent difference between the highest-cost and the lowest-cost city. In 1950 the difference was only 14 percent. And 16 of the 33 varied from dead center by less than two percent.

What brought this trend toward uniform costs around the country? One thing is the steady averaging off of living standards every where in the nation. Diets, living quarters, amusements, clothing become increasingly more alike in all sections, and in little cities as well as big.

Another is the American business miracle of production, and distribution, which can get mass-produced goods to every corner of the land at around the same price.

Population shifts have played a large part. They created markets which didn't exist 15 years ago. And goods flowed in to the places where demand was built up.

Industries followed population, and products are now made at or near cities which in other years had to ship in their entire supplies.

Director Roy V. Peel of the Bureau of the Census notes the effects of this shifting of population and industry.

Sounds Rather Fishy But-It's Small World

SYDNEY, Australia, April 24—(AP)—A year ago officers of the Government's Scientific and Research Organization caught a shark in St. Helens Bay, Tasmania, put a tag on it, and let it go again. The idea was to get information about the growth and movement of the shark if it were seen again.

Ten months later scientists did the same thing with 196 flounders. The other the tagged shark was caught in St. Helens Bay. Inside it was one of the tagged flounders.

Flowery Request Reaches Council

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., April 24—(AP)—Flowery Oriental phrasing is not uncommon in petitions to the United Nations Trusteeship Council. One of the most flowery recently arrived from an assistant clerk in civil service, jailed in the French Cameroons. It was addressed to UN Assistant Secretary-General Victor Hoo and was headed "Last Cry for Help."

"O, powerful Secretary and Glorious Saviour and Mediator of Oppressed Wretches, here at your feet is a distressed unfortunate who, being in need of urgent help, appeals to you as the last resort with the sweet hope of being heard."

Then it went on for 300 words to detail how many times he was beaten by police and how the alleged plot against him developed. The man accused his enemies of using a form of hypnotism on others "to destroy me on my own land." The council promised to investigate.

Atomic Weapons Proving Ground Planned in Sub-Arctic Wasteland

WASHINGTON, April 24 —(AP)—The United States may be preparing its fifth atomic weapons proving ground, this one in a sub-arctic wasteland.

A lonely spot on the Aleutian island chain, which stretches out 800 miles from the Alaskan mainland westward toward Russia's Siberian empire, appears a probable choice.

There, for the first time, the U. S. could test atomic bombs

Letter Carriers Convene Here

National Officer
Gives Main Talk

An interesting session of the Southwestern District of the National Association of Letter Carriers was held here over the weekend, with 125 members present.

The session was held at the auditorium of The Dayton Power and Light Company, with the main address being delivered by John Schmidt of Milwaukee, one of the national officers.

The Ladies Auxiliary also attended the meeting for the Schmidt address, and later held a separate meeting.

Henry Engle, assistant postmaster of the Washington C. H. office, extended greetings. Response was made by Tom McNary of Cincinnati.

District President Orlando Warner, Brookville, also spoke briefly.

Various problems concerning the work of the carriers were discussed and solutions recommended.

Lunch was served by the Leadership Class of the First Presbyterian Church.

Archie McCullough is president of the local organization of letter carriers, and Mrs. Ruth France of Springfield, is president of the Ladies Auxiliary.

Song Fest Set For Friday Night

Song festers will be interested in learning that another song fest has been scheduled for 7.30 P. M. Friday at the Wipert home on the Wilmington Road. It is emphasized that anyone who is interested in having some informal fun is invited to come to the fest.

Those who will become ten timers if they attend the song fest are Mrs. Jeanette Lindsay, Miss Frances Geng, Mrs. Walter P. Noble and Hal Summers. By entering the select circle of the ten timers the song festers are entitled to do a little "bossing" on their own. They will be able to ask the group to perform for them.

Sebastian Amazes Audience Here

John Sebastian amazed a Washington C. H. Community Concert audience here last night with his virtuosity on the harmonica - a musical instrument that most of those in attendance had always thought of as a pocket toy to be played by children.

Proof that the harmonica is a valid concert instrument, fitted for classical and popular music alike, was quickly given by the artist. Sebastian's friendly, gracious manner plus clever comments during the course of the program added further to the enjoyment of the evening's concert.

The hauntingly beautiful "Arioso" by Bach opened the program. Mozart's "Sonata in E minor," which followed, was originally composed for violin and piano. "Allegro from Sonata in A minor" by Bach, surely a technically difficult composition to play, won ready applause from the audience of more than 400 concert goers at the Washington High School auditorium.

Exciting highlight of the soloist's second group of selections was Bartok's "Rumanian Folk Dances."

As the harmonica continues to gain recognition as a means of serious musical expression, many outstanding modern composers have written compositions especially for it.

LOSES 22 LBS. 4 Weeks with Rennel

Mrs. Clara Sahli, 162 S. Forest Ave., Youngstown, Ohio writes: "I have lost 22 lbs. in 4 weeks since I started to use Rennel. Before I started with Rennel I was so tired most of the time, and my weight bothered my legs. I feel so much better in every way now, also a lot lighter on my feet."

It's amazing how quickly you can lose unsightly fat at home. Obtain liquid Rennel at your drugstore, mix with grapefruit juice as directed, and take two tablespoonfuls twice a day. That's all there is to it. If you do not lose weight with the very first bottle just return it for your money back. You need never know a hungry moment while reducing with Rennel.

Russians Plan German Army

Would Organize 25
New Divisions

BERLIN, April 24 —(AP)— Soviet Russia has completed detailed plans for creating a Communist East German army of 25 divisions, beautifully performed piano numbers—"Etude, Opus 25, No. 12" and "Mazurka in A minor" by Chopin; "Zapateado," composed by Turina; and an old English folk song, arranged by Mr. Malver, and played as an encore comprised the third group on the program.

Three short pieces, written by Sebastian, were crowd-pleasers. "Sailors Dance," "Serenade for Exhale Notes" and "Inca Dance" each showed that Sebastian's ability is not restricted to playing the harmonica; he can compose music for it with equal skill. "Estralia" popular Mexican song and a capsule version of "Rhapsody in Blue" by George Gershwin completed the formal portion of the concert. In response to the continuing applause, Sebastian played two encores, "Malaguena" and an old-fashioned hoedown entitled "Harmonica Player."

Harry Beall, Community Concert representative from New York City, spoke briefly during the intermission concerning the concert series here and of the need for the support of everyone so that the series, now concluding its fourth year, may continue. Beall also spoke in glowing terms of the dePaar Infantry Chorus which has been signed as one of the attractions for the 1951-52 concert season.

an authoritative East German source said today.

He described this army--to be based upon alert units (Bereitschaften) of the militarized, 50,000-man people's police--as Moscow's ace in the hole if Big Four talks fail to settle East-West differences.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko denounced western defense plans and hinted for the first time at the possibility of failure of the talks in meetings of the four-power deputies in Paris this week.

Allied officials in Berlin confirmed several key points in the report of the East German source. By this informant's account:

The widely reported visit of George M. Malenkov of the Soviet Politburo to East Germany in early February concerned military as well as political affairs. Malenkov discussed the army plan with high Soviet officers at Schloss (Castle) Babelsberg, the residence of Gen. Vassily Chuikov, the Soviet commander-in-chief in Germany.

Malenkov told the officers the Politburo had decided to rush the formation of an East Germany army if the Russians failed to block West German rearmament or to enutrialize Germany through four-power discussions.

The grim and ruthless Communist boss, high among the candidates to succeed Joseph Stalin, outlined the strategy:

In the 18th century, the Japanese made kites big enough to carry a man.

Cards Beat Reds In Messy Game

Dodgers Hold Top By Edging Braves

BY JOHN REICHLER
(By The Associated Press)
Cincinnati lost a heartbreaker yesterday—a heartbreaker not because the score was 2-1 but because of the bush-league way they lost it.

Here are just two factors:
1—Bob Scheffing singled into a double play.

2—Four men were chopped down in some of the weirdest base running ever seen in major league baseball.

The Scheffing affair came in the fourth inning, when the Reds desperately were trying to improve the one-run lead they had given Kenny Raffensberger. Bob Usher doubled, Joe Adcock singled to right, Ted Kluszewski bounced out and Usher was trapped off third. Then Scheffing stroked a safety to left. Adcock was cut down at the plate by five feet and the Reds' catcher, trying for second, also was put out. So the Reds—with a double and two singles—failed to bring one run across.

The base running in general was gosh-awful. Johnny Wrotestek was out at second trying to make a single into a double in the fifth. Adcock had reached first in the crucial ninth on a Del Rice error, but he was erased when legging it to second.

The only run that Cincinnati scored came in the second frame—and that couldn't be helped, for Connie Ryan homered into the leftfield bleachers.

The Red Birds tied the count in the fifth when Solly Hemus singled and later scored on another safety by Enos (Country) Slaughter.

Hemus, the little St. Louis shortstop, tripled into deep center in the next inning to drive in Del Rice with what proved to be the winning counter.

MEET KING, Palica, Branca and Newcombe. Not a Brooklyn law firm but the Dodgers' answer to Jim Konstanty.

As brilliant as Konstanty was last year when he helped Philadelphia win the pennant as the league's most valuable player, his rescue work never matched the sensational relief pitching of this quartet.

The season is only a week old, but the four already have been credited with three relief victories. Better yet, they have pitched 13 innings all told (excluding Newcombe's rout-going effort against the New York Giants), without surrendering a run. They have yielded only three safeties.

No wonder Manager Chuck Dressen is chortling with glee as his charges comfortably on top of the National League standings with five victories in six starts.

Erv Palica and Clyde King hurled 4-2-3 innings of excellent relief ball yesterday as the Dodgers outlasted Boston's Braves, 2-1, in a 16-inning marathon on a clutch run-scoring single by Carl Furillo. Palica rescued starter Joe Hatten, getting the side out after Hatten had walked the first two batters to face him.

The triumph maintained the Dodgers' half-game lead over the Chicago Cubs, who nipped Pittsburgh, 2-1, on a ninth inning double by Andy Pafko that scored Hal Jeffcoat.

The Phils handed the Giants their fifth successive defeat with an 8-4 victory over the Philadelphia lights to gain their first triumph over Jim Hearn since he came up the Majors in 1947. The righthander had whipped the Phils nine times. Rookie Jocko Thompson held the Giants to six hits.

Vic Raschi pitched the New York Yankees to a 5-4 victory over his Philadelphia "Cousins" for his second success of the sea-

Beulah Park Opens May 5

Beulah Park welcomes the Ohio racing season Saturday, May 5, when a 20-day meeting of running races gets under way at the Grove City course.

After opening day, Beulah will be "dark" both Monday and Tuesday, May 7 and 8, but will resume Wednesday, May 9. Following the resumption of the sport May 9, the Beulah season will continue uninterrupted (except for the usual Sunday suspension) through Memorial Day.

A "new deal" in allotting stalls was placed into effect at Beulah this year. No stalls were allotted until after March 15. All told, applications for 500 stalls were received. From these, the stall committee, of which Henry Green is chairman, selected the most formidable stables giving the preference to those that had raced during the past winter.

The housing capacity of the Beulah stable area is 709 so it was necessary for the stall committee to reject the applications of more than half of the number received.

WCH Bowlers Lose Port Clinton Match

A friendly bowling feud seems to have gotten started between Sons Grill team here and a Port Clinton quintet.

Early last spring Ray Blackburn contacted some of his friends from Port Clinton and invited them down to Washington C. H. for a match.

Last week end the Grillers returned the visit to Port Clinton. They didn't do as well as when the Clinton team came here they lost. This makes it one match apiece.

Besides the private tourney the members were invited out to one of the Port Clinton member's home on Lake Erie for dinner and had a fine time.

Those who went up from here were Ray Blackburn, Mel Ogren, Carl Noon, Shurn Goodman and Herm Schalnait.

The Port Clinton team already has been invited to return here for a continuation of the friendly feud.

Babe Zaharias Tops In Richmond Open

RICHMOND, Calif., April 24—(P)—Golf's greatest woman player, Mrs. George (Babe) Didrikson Zaharias, had another triumph notched into the record today, winner of the $3,000 Richmond Open tournament.

The Tampa, Fla., professional fronted the rest of the money players, as well as some good amateurs, yesterday with a 224 for the 54-hole event. It was worth $750 and increased her earnings for the current country-wide tournament trail to $3,750.

Baseball Congress Spreads over Ohio

WICHITA, Kas., April 24—(P)—The National Baseball Congress today announced affiliation of the North Central Ohio League of two divisions and 12 teams in its 1951 National Association.

Division members are: American—New Washington (Crawford County), Lexington Greys (Richland County), Upper Sandusky, Ontario Merchants, (Richland County), Mansfield YMCA, and North Fairfield (Huron County).

National—Crestline (Crawford County), Mansfield Merchants, Tiro Independents (Crawford County), Shelby Blues (Richland County), Leesville Reds (Crawford County) and Lucas Vets (Richland County).

Red Birds Beaten In Last Inning, 4-3

(By The Associated Press)
Milwaukee, buoyed by the home run swatting of Jim Basso, has nudged within 1/2 game of fast-starting Toledo in the American Association race.

While league leading Toledo was idle Monday night, Milwaukee throttled Louisville 4-2 in 12 innings with Basso's two homers accounting for all its runs.

Kansas City continued in third place, only one game off the pace, by squelching Indianapolis 8-5.

In the only other scheduled game, St. Paul shaded the Red Birds at Columbus 4-3. Deadlocked 2-2 in the ninth, the Saints wielded a pair of runs on two singles, an error at the plate by Columbus catcher Dick Morgan and a squeeze play.

Inspectors Named

COLUMBUS, April 24—(P)—The State Racing Commission yesterday named seven inspectors for the 1951 season. They include: P. W. Semler, Hamilton, R. N. Rayburne, Lancaster.

George To Coach At Texas A&M

COLLEGE STATION, Tex., Apr. 24—(P)—Ray George, who went out with the gang in the coaching shake-up at Southern California last winter, stepped in today as head man of a ready-made football team—Texas A and M.

The big ex-line star and ex-line coach of the Trojans last night was appointed to the post vacated by Harry Stiteler.

Stiteler resigned March 19 after informing college officials he had not told the truth about a mysterious beating received in Houston in December.

MacArthur's Son

Arthur was introduced to some clowns and a few of the animals, including an orangutan that pulled his hair.

Meanwhile, back at the hotel between 20,000 and 30,000 pieces of mail have piled up. Two enlisted men were kept busy sorting and opening it.

Thursday morning the general leaves for Chicago and an official welcome reception there. Milwaukee will honor him Friday.

It was announced last night the MacArthurs will visit an aunt of Mrs. MacArthur at her home in Murfreesboro, Tenn., Monday on a one-day round trip by plane. The aunt, Mrs. Marie B. Glenn, was in New York for last week's reception here.

The trip Monday will be on the MacArthur's 14th wedding anniversary. Murfreesboro is Mrs. MacArthur's home town.

Charles Dawes Dies

World War I he won the nickname "Hell 'n Maria" from his testimony before a House committee investigating the administration of the War Department. And his underslung pipe—which appeared at first glance to be upside down—also typified Dawes to the nation a generation ago.

It was as "Hell 'n Maria" that America remembers Dawes best.

Dawes was a brigadier general with the A.E.F. in France in World War I and was assigned as general purchasing officer.

Appearing before the House investigating committee, he was asked: "Isn't it true that excessive prices were paid for mules?"

"Hell 'n Maria!" shouted the general. "I'd have paid horse prices for sheep if the sheep could have hauled artillery."

Native of Ohio

Dawes, who was born in Marietta, O., started his business life in Lincoln, Neb., as a lawyer and in banking but he came to Chicago before the turn of the century.

And for more than 50 years he was one of the leaders in civic, banking and political circles. His brother, Rufus, was associated with him in his banking business. Early in his career as a banker, General Dawes, only 31 years old, served as comptroller of the currency under President McKinley.

After he left the RFC there was much criticism against Dawes over the RFC loan of $90,000,000 to his tottering Central Republic Bank and Trust Company during the depression. The loans were an issue in the 1932 presidential campaign. There was much court litigation but the bank ultimately ceased functioning and the City National Bank and Trust Company took over its deposit liabilities.

Surviving Dawes, besides his widow, is a daughter, Mrs. Melvin B. Ericson of Evanston. A son, Rufus, drowned in 1912 when he was 21. Later General and Mrs. Dawes adopted two children, now Mrs. Virginia Cragg of Kenilworth, Ill., and Dana McCutcheon Dawes, of Marengo, Ill.

KILL 'EM WITH KINDNESS

By FRED DICKENSON

SYNOPSIS
Marrying playboy Ronnie Tompkins mysteriously slain in his luxurious home despite the eagle eye of Detective Mack McGann, engaged to marry him against possible violent death. Ronnie's cherished friend, Frazier Farwell, a disc jockey, had been asked to play the music at the murder. Out near no sound of struggle, McGann warns Charlie Jones, a beautiful model who was to become Tompkins' seventh wife, to remain away from her home while the law's man-hunt is on.

CHAPTER EIGHT

IF IT WAS Tompkins' slayer who was following him, and McGann was due for a 32 in the back, the killer would have to have a new gun. He had left the other one near the window of the Tompkins study.

Whatever his game, the tail was more energetic than polished. Swift glances usually caught him merging into the shadows of the next doorway.

McGann hurried toward the waterfront docks. Ahead of him stretched the ponderous elevated steelwork of the West Side express highway. Beyond it loomed the graceful shadows of giant ships. Not even the pollution along the docks could spoil completely the fresh, wet breeze of the great river.

Far out, a tug nooted and a ferry loosed a deep-voiced answer. Here were the black hulks of warehouses, the rough streets of heavy daytime commerce laced with shining railway tracks. Abruptly, McGann turned a corner. Off to his left, like a tremendous stage setting, glowed the city.

The detective took only a few steps from the corner, then slipped quickly into a dark and broken doorway. Footsteps slithered up. They founded the corner. A shadow passed McGann and the detective moved lithely forward and whipped his left arm about the man's throat.

He jerked back, choking off the smothered cry, and slammed his left knee into the small of the man's back. The man was wiry but agile. He threshed wildly, and they danced across the sidewalk in deadly embrace. It took all of McGann's strength to hold the struggling trailer. He sucked in his breath with agonized effort. With ever-increasing pressure, he made sure that his opponent did not breathe at all.

Gradually, the struggles lessened. McGann cautiously allowed his man a breath. When it did not set off any further atomic reaction, he gave him another. Still holding his left arm crooked about the man's throat, he frisked him expertly with his right.

There was no weapon so he released his hold. It felt good to let the blood run back into his aching arm. The man sat down on the curb and started to cough. He coughed and sobbed for air with his head down between his knees. Then he sneezed twice. His hat had fallen off and he leaned over for it and he slapped it against his leg.

"Ya muscle-bound moron," he said, "I think you fractured your esophagus."

McGann said, "Don't you know it's impolite to follow people?" He fished a cigarette from his pack, stuck it in his mouth and struck a match. After lighting the cigarette, he held the match in front of the man's face.

He had seen those sharp features before, and suddenly he thought of the stoop in front of the Tompkins home, and flashing bulbs. It was the dark young man in a crumpled fedora who had demanded admittance to the murder house for himself and news photographer.

"Hildy," McGann said, "don't ever sneak up on me again. You nearly went to that city room in the sky."

The reporter was tenderly pressing thin fingers against his neck. The match burned McGann's hand and he dropped it. He struck another. This time the glow revealed a pained grin. The reporter rose unsteadily, and clapped his hat back on. "Mr. McGann," he said, "my trailing days are over. From now on, I cover nothing but golden weddings and lodge meetings."

McGann was surprised. He said, "You name names?"

"I name name," the young man said.

They were in the dark again. Like a beacon far down in the cavernous tunnel under the highway shone the lights of a waterfront tavern. The detective tapped the other on the elbow. "Come," he said. "I would have words with you."

The bartender slid glasses in front of Detective Mack McGann and Dinkman "Dink" Weston, general assignments man of the Morning Blade. With a thick forefinger, he extracted a quarter from the change scattered on the moist mahogany in front of McGann. The barkeep's left ear was a sun-kissed cauliflower and his nose was a broken ski-slide.

He leaned forward between them. "Anything else, gents?"

"Yes," McGann said. "I'd like another of those hard-boiled eggs. They're very good."

"Thank you, sir," the bartender said. He threw a light left jab at the bowl and lifted out an egg. He hooked it to the bar, crossing his right with the left.

He stepped quickly to the cash register, balancing on the balls of his feet. Weston watched the performance with exaggerated interest. "What round is this?" he asked. "Three," McGann said. "I think our man is winning on points."

The cash register bell rang and the bartender subsided, breathing deeply. He picked out a nickel change and slid it across to join the other coins in front of the detective.

Weston looked at McGann and grinned crookedly. He had dark circles under his eyes which were, however, bright and alert. He winked and turned back to the bartender.

"Use your right a little more," he advised. "You could've nailed him twice that round."

The man behind the bar slid his head smoothly to the right, weaved back and to the left. He feinted briefly with his shoulder and clinched with the inner edge of the bar. "Naw," he said. "I'm carrying him six rounds for the video rights."

Weston stared. "That stops me," he said.

They had been there twenty minutes. A clock with a cracked glass said 10:55. Without appearing to, McGann had studied the newspaperman and he had not been displeased with the results. Dink Weston was quick and sensible. Also, he probably knew more than anyone else about the late Ronnie Tompkins.

The reporter had explained everything with commendable lucidity. Some years before, he had covered the first of Ronnie Tompkins' minute marriages. As such things will, it had started a trend in the city room of The Blade. From then on he had been required to cover all of them.

When the newspapermen still were interested in interviews with Tompkins, Weston automatically had drawn the assignment. He was the "Tompkins expert." If the art editor was too lazy to check the morgue and just yelled, "Hey, that Harmon dame. Wasn't she Tompkins' third wife?" Weston called back, "No. She was the second."

He didn't even have to look it up. It was a convenience to have him around, like a highly-specialized almanac.

"I'd been expecting to hear from Tompkins," Weston said. "That's why I wasn't surprised by the phone call."

That call, he told McGann, apparently had come in to the switchboard of The Blade in the early afternoon, before he had come on. Tompkins merely had left word that he would like to see Weston any time that he could drop up before seven.

"It was a good excuse to get out of the office," Weston had confessed to the detective. "I rolled around there about five and rang around there about five and didn't get an answer. So I found a place over on Madison Avenue and had a sandwich and coffee. I went back to the house once and then hit the coffeepot again. I was just getting settled when blooie every square car in the city goes by."

Big Turnout at Lions Club Meet

Second Anniversary
Noted at Bloomingburg

There were 113 Lion members, wives and guests present at the second annual Bloomingburg Lions Club anniversary dinner meeting and dance Monday evening in the Bloomingburg High School.

Howard Foster, club president, gave a review of the club's activities during the past year. He also announced that work on the club's latest project, a community playground, would get underway Tuesday, and that the new street signs will be delivered in the near future.

Clyde Cramer requested the club donate $100 for the purchase of some helmets, slickers, boots and gas masks for the fire department.

The nominations committee presented the following slate of names for officers for the coming year: Edgar McFadden, president; G. H. Biddle, first vice president; Clyde Cramer, second vice president; and Glenn Davis, third vice president.

Joe Elliott, secretary; Omar Rapp and Ira Scott, treasurer; Charles Andrews and Lloyd Iden, for one director position; Glenn Heistand and Gordon Cowdrey, for the director; Otis Core and Al Conaway, lion tamer, and Ray Smith and Jess Schlichter, tail twister. They will be voted on at the next meeting.

Charles Cunningham headed the nominating committee, composed of Richard Hunter, Gordon Lynch, Leonard Slager, and Charles Foster.

Four new members were also inducted into the club at the meeting. They include: Roland Chase, Milbourne Barney, James T. Perrill and Robert Huff.

Following the meeting, the members, their wives and guests attended a dance.

Reds Press Assault

drive United Nations forces from Korea, or to destroy them, regardless of the further destruction of his own troop.

Reds Ignore Slughter

Another army spokesman said Red casualties were 10 times those of UN forces. On the eastern front, an officer said Red losses there were 20 times those of the Allies.

Field commanders described the situation on the central front as critical. But Ridgway said, "I have complete confidence."

Korean officials were not so confident. Great columns of refugees clogged the highways south of the central and western front. AP Correspondent Jim Becker on the central front said the "tired, dispirited people" didn't even raise their heads to see what was happening along the road they plodded. Twice before they had fled along the same routes from the Communist advance—always in decreasing numbers.

Arms of the pincer were formed by Chinese pushing down the mountainous center of the peninsula, and reinforced Reds boring across the Imjin River in the west.

Elements of two attacking Chinese divisions forced UN troops to withdraw near Korangpo at the western end of the front. Korangpo is south of the 38th Parallel

Draft Quota for County Cut to Eight

Fayette County's draft quota for May has been cut from 10 to eight, it was reported today by the State Selective Service headquarters. The youths here will be called for induction May 8.

Quotas for Ohio were cut about one third, from an original quota of 3,840 to 3,042.

The Associated Press dispatch reported that the quotas will be met by youths born since March 31, 1931. April's quota was 2,640.

Some of the quotas for surrounding counties were as follows: Clinton, 20; Highland, 7; Madison, 18; Pickaway, 10; and Ross, 17.

and 30 miles north of Seoul, South Korean capital.

UN troops hit back. The other arm of the pincer threatened the Chunchon-Seoul highway. This road leads to the capital from the north.

Only around Hwachon reservoir, east of the breakthrough, did the UN line hold firmly. Outflanked Allies beat off repeated attacks at Hwachon at the western end of the reservoir.

Eleven miles to the east, at the other end, UN forces gave some ground to hammering Reds but held Yanggu. The town remained in danger.

Hwachon and Yanggu are seven miles north of the border.

"This is a real war now," a divisional officer said. "We are dealing with an enemy that has large numbers, lots of artillery for the first time and the obvious intention of wiping us out."

"We know that. And we are waiting for him. He has taken some terrible losses already. And he is going to take some more."

Red losses Monday were estimated at nearly 12,000. About one fourth of them were from round-the-clock air attacks.

But that's not much out of an estimated 400,000 troops already committed to the attack. An assault force of that size would leave the Reds some 300,000 in reserve in North Korea.

UN troops had pulled back as much as 15 miles in places. The withdrawal was generally well ordered. But it was so fast that units from company to battalion size were surrounded on the west and central fronts. They fought their way out Tuesday.

Eagle X-ray Survey Here Is Postponed

The Eagles of Washington C. H. and their friends are going to have to wait just a little longer to get their X-ray survey for tuberculosis and other ailments.

The equipment for taking the X-ray pictures was originally scheduled to come here next Friday. But, because of complications on the schedule at Dayton, it will not come until "sometime later... within a month or two," J. Paul Strevey, secretary of the county Tuberculosis and Health Association.

Strevey, however, gave assurance that the X-ray would be here and that the Eagles would be notified of the date "in ample time."

The X-ray survey here is sponsored by the Eagles Lodge here and the county health association in the general X-ray surveys of which Robert Brooks of Columbus is the manager.

The X-ray unit will be here the last week in July for the Fayette County Fair, Strevey said. The general public will have an opportunity then to get X-ray examinations.

Rites Held for Mrs. Clara Engle

Funeral services for Mrs. Clara B. Engle, who died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Bessie Swift, were held at the Hook and Son Funeral Home at 2 P. M. Monday.

Rev. A. E. Huntington officiated, reading the Scriptures, offering prayer, delivering the sermon, and paying a personal tribute to Mrs. Engle. He also read a memoir and the poem, "I Rest Content."

The funeral home was filled with relatives and friends. There were many beautiful floral tributes, which were cared for by the grandsons, who served as pallbearers: Vernon Engle, Walter Parrett, Merion Roll, Alfred Reynolds, James Hall and Lowell Marvin.

Interment was made in the family lot of the Washington Cemetery.

Young Farmers Plan Field Trips

Plans were made Monday night for a group of young farmers in this community who have been organized for sometime to make several field trips during the summer.

The young farmers will visit interesting agricultural places throughout the area.

The young farmers held their 21st meeting Monday. It will be the last one of the season.

The meetings have consisted of a short course in agriculture concerning farm management, and they have been conducted by Gordon J. Ryder, vocational agriculture teacher at the high school.

Final Tribute Paid Mrs. Don Bowen

Relatives and old friends paid their final tributes to Mrs. Don H. C. Bowen at funeral services held for her at the Gerstner Funeral Home at P. M. Monday.

The simple but impressive services were conducted by Rev. Harold T. Braden, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church here. The minister offered prayer, quoted from the Scriptures and paid a tribute to Mrs. Bowen as he read the poem "For All My Quiet Life" and "The Rosary."

The flowers which blanketed the casket as silent tokens of affection and esteem were taken care of by the pallbearers: Ray Maynard, J. M. Baker, Bradley Johnson, Chet Roberts, Glenn B. Rodgers and Colin C. Campbell.

Interment was in the Washington Cemetery.

Rosemary Leeth Elected New 4-H Club President

Rosemary Leeth was elected president of the Handy Homemakers 4-H Club at their first meeting last Saturday in the Olive School.

Other officers who were elected include: Phyllis Vandayke, vice president; Julie Pavey, secretary; Joyce Pitzer, treasurer; Grace Shubert and Judy Betz, recreational leader.

Besides selecting a name and electing officers, the members were given a demonstration on making lamp shades.

Following the meeting the members were served refreshments. Julie Pavey will be the hostess for the next meeting on April 26.
